

WILLIAM R. HINSDALE

William R. Hinsdale, an engineer of Orange, N. J., is the man who wrote the Cornelius Van Tromp letters to President Wilson during the war, urging him to adopt the convoy system to defeat the German U-boats which were at that time causing a panic in shipping circles. Mr. Hinsdale used the name of Van Tromp from the famous Dutch admiral who cleaned the seas of pirates long ago.

2 RESIDENTS IN RYOLITE NOW

Only two persons are residing in Ryolite now, according to the statements of Roy Taylor and Roy Gillen, who have just returned from the place, where they have been for the purpose of removing a heating plant from the First National Bank building. The two people are Mrs. Iyer and her son. She is proprietress of the Mayflower hotel, but business is evidently dull in that town for Mr. Taylor and Mr. Gillen were the first guests since last February who have stayed more than one night at the hotel.

In its boom days the town had seven or eight thousand residents. But the houses are rapidly falling into decay now and not even a prospect is being developed in that section. According to the men who have just returned, the town is truly a "ghost city."

G. O. P. OUTGROWS RIVAL IN SOUTH

(By Associated Press.) TAMPA, Fla., Dec. 4.—In connection with the inroads made by the Republican party into the solid south, a local Democratic newspaper analyzing the official returns from Florida of the presidential election, shows the Republican vote in Florida has grown from less than 2 per cent of the total number of ballots in 1916 to about 30 per cent of the total cast in 1920. In the four years the Democratic vote grew a little more than 48 per cent, while the Republican vote in the same time grew almost 160 per cent.

Poet's Lofly Position. Among the British men of prominence probably the one who most frequently refused money was Robert Browning, the poet. During the last twenty-five years of his life editors offered large sums for a short poem from his pen. But Browning said "No." He told his friends when they pointed out the unwisdom of this course that he was determined not to thrust his poems down the throats of people; that if they wanted to read him they could buy his books.

BOXING POPULAR IN IDAHO SCHOOL

(By Associated Press.) MOSCOW, Idaho, Dec. 3.—Classes in boxing are proving "decidedly popular" and are attended by increasingly large numbers of eager students, David MacMillan, assistant athletic director, announced recently. "Some knowledge of the manly art of self-defense not only inspires reasonable assurance and confidence, but also has a decidedly beneficial effect on the physique of the person who receives instruction," Mr. MacMillan said in explaining his work.

PASTURAGE GOOD

Reports from all points of the state are to the effect that the best pasturage for stock in years is being experienced. The recent rains and warm weather has started grass on all of the ranges. As the hay crop was short in the eastern section of the state the early pasturage is a great benefit to stock and sheep men.
